1.2 Why this agreement. The parties agree that this disclosure takes place before any client care agreement is signed, and that the Prospective Client's information deserves protection from the first conversation.

2. Confidential Information

2.1 What is covered. Confidential Information means all information the Prospective Client gives the Firm for the Purpose, in any form (spoken, written, electronic or by demonstration), whether or not marked confidential. It includes:

- was developed independently by the Firm without use of the Confidential Information.

A combination of features is not public just because individual features are.

3. The Firm's obligations

3.1 Use only for the Purpose. The Firm will use the Confidential Information only for the Purpose.

3.2 Keep it secret. The Firm will not disclose the Confidential Information to anyone except as clause 3.3 allows. It will protect it with at least the care it uses for its own confidential information, and no less than reasonable care, including secure storage and access limited to those who need it.

3.3 Permitted disclosure. The Firm may disclose Confidential Information:

- to its directors, employees, advisers and contractors who need it for the Purpose and are bound by confidentiality terms no less strict than these. The Firm is responsible for any breach by them;
- where required by law, a court, a regulator or a government body. Where lawful, the Firm will tell the Prospective Client first and disclose only what is required.

The Firm will not share the Confidential Information with an Endorsing Body, the Home Office or any other third party without the Prospective Client's written consent.

3.4 No use of the idea. The Firm will not use the business idea, or any part of it, to start, develop or help any business of its own or of any other person, and will not pass it to another client. Nothing in this agreement transfers or licenses any intellectual property to the Firm. All rights in the Confidential Information remain with the Prospective Client.

3.5 Notice of breach. The Firm will tell the Prospective Client promptly in writing if it becomes aware of any unauthorised use or disclosure, and will take reasonable steps to limit the harm.

3.6 Similar ideas. The Firm works with many founders, some of whom may bring ideas in the same sector. The Firm working with another client on an independently originated idea is not a breach, provided the Firm does not use or disclose the Prospective Client's Confidential Information.

Within 30 days of the Prospective Client's written request, or of a decision that the Firm will not act for them, the Firm will return or securely delete all Confidential Information and confirm this in writing. The Firm may keep one copy only where the law or its regulator requires, and that copy stays subject to this agreement.

4.4 Duration. This agreement starts on the date above. The Firm's obligations last for [3] years from the last disclosure, except that obligations about personal data, and about any trade secret, last for as long as the information remains confidential or personal data is held.

5. General terms

5.1 No engagement or advice. This agreement does not create a client relationship or oblige either party to enter one. Any initial view the Firm gives on eligibility is preliminary, is based only on the information provided, and is not immigration advice the Prospective Client may rely on until a client care agreement is signed.

5.2 No obligation to disclose. The Prospective Client decides what to share. The Firm gives no warranty about the outcome of its assessment.
